

SAUNTERINGS

From Where The West Begins.

By JOHN T. MEYERS.
For The Sea Coast Echo.

THE hunt is on for local Nimrods. Deer season officially opened at sunrise on Thursday, November 16th, and closes on December 31. Two bucks is the season's limit for any hunter. It is against the law to kill a deer without pronged horns.

Wild game of Texas includes white tail deer, black tail deer and mule deer. Antelope are found in very limited numbers in west and south-western parts of the state. Small black and brown bear are hunted in the mountainous regions. Wolf and panther hunts are popular the year round on large ranches. Quail and dove are found in abundance in the brushland near San Antonio. Cotton tail rabbits are also plentiful.

Postal authorities have issued warning to hunters who would send wild game by mail. Failure to obey regulations will get unsuspecting Nimrods in trouble with Uncle Sam. Here are the rules:

Wild duck and other game birds may be sent through the mail. But must be addressed to the party who did the shooting. They must be mailed only after it has been cooked. If the hunter plans to send a sample of Texas venison to friends at distant points, he must be a cook as well as a marksman.

A GAME of "watchful waiting" is being played by local dealers who are afraid to take the initiative in openly selling the first bonded liquor. Bonded liquor with an estimated value of $50,000 is being stored in the city awaiting developments. A warning from local prohibition forces that arrest of liquor sellers would be made brought the premature bonded liquor traffic to a standstill.

General consensus, however, is that San Antonio will shortly join the "wide open" cities without any serious interference from the federal government. In the meantime old-time bartenders are practicing shaking motions for mixing drinks that were popular in the days of yore.

NOTICED a slim, pasty-faced chap plinking out a tune on a dilapidated piano in a dingy place on the fringe of the infamous west side. His hat was slouched back on his head, and a cigarette dangled from the corner of his mouth. It was a typical wild west scene.

Wonder if these itinerant barroom piano players will get back into circulation with the swan song of the 18th amendment.

COWBOYS down on the ranches have a good trick they delight in pulling on tenderfoot visitors. Folks not accustomed to the wide open spaces have a horror of rattlesnakes. The reputation of the deadly diamond back rattlesnake is well known. The rancher realizes that the tenderfoot is naturally afraid, and expecting every minute to come in contact with a rattler. It is no wonder they are frozen in their tracks when some scampish cowboy sneaks off to nearby brush and rattles birdshot in a tin can. Even when aware of the trick, the resemblance to the snake's warning is striking enough to send cold chills down one's spine. Another snake scare is effected by drawing a rope across the boot of an unsuspecting tenderfoot as he sits on the ranch house veranda. A detailed description of rattlesnake horrors always precede these hair-raising scares.

IN our humble estimation, a true optimist would be the man who could step into his garage on a freezing morn, find a couple of flats and a dead battery—and still have nerve enough to smile. Frankly, I don't believe such an animal exists.

OKLAHOMA was admitted to the statehood on November 16th, 1907. Oklahoma is the fine state out in the west where kidnappers and coyotes are branded with the same iron. Oklahoma produces oil wells, millionaire Indians, and the inimitable Will Rogers, who is better than all the other good qualities of the state combined—and that's taking in a lot of territory, pardner.

WE thought Fuller's earth was in the Adam's ale class until recently when a druggist explained the matter, and showed proof thereof: Fuller's earth is a mixture of clay and sand or volcanic ash of such porosity as to give it a great surface area. It is used in petroleum and cotton seed oil refining. In the home it is used to clean grease from cloth and woolen goods. Deposits of Fuller's earth are worked near San Antonio. Thousands of tons of this product are produced yearly.

EXCEPT for milk and ice delivery and an occasional vegetable huckster, the horse has disappeared from today's city street scenes. One of our secret ambitions is to get in the driver's seat on a barouche on a moonlight night and clipper clip down some lane trailing into the piney woods. Next time we get back home, we will indulge this whim—if we can find the barouche and horse.

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1933.

FORTY-SECOND YEAR, No. 46

WRECK ON OLD TRAIL SUNDAY P.M.

Otto Meder and Family, Bay Summer Residents, In Collision, Hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Meder, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Meder, Jr., and Miss Wilhelmina Meder, all residents of Algiers, were seriously hurt in an automobile accident early Sunday night on the Old Spanish Trail, 12 miles out from Bay St. Louis, while they were enroute home after spending the weekend at their summer home, Dunbar avenue, adjoining the John D. Mollere dwelling. Their car was wrecked.

It collided with a car owned and operated by S. H. Dedaux, resident of DeLisle and manager of Pine Hills Golf Course, while enroute home from New Orleans.

A third car was in the accident as well, owned and carrying members of the Taylor family, of Picayune, who were also injured, but able to take care of themselves and to continue home. This car sustained a broken wheel, which was repaired at a near-by service station. The Meder family members were picked up by a passing car and brought back to Bay St. Louis, to the home of Mr. Mollere, where it was found that Miss Meder had sustained a fractured left leg, below the knee and general injury, Mrs. Meder, Sr., badly cut on the face and suffered internal injury of undetermined extent, according to a statement of Dr. J. C. Buckley, the attending physician; Mrs. Meder, Jr., sustained injuries over the chest and a deep gash under the right arm and possibly rib injury, while both father and son were bruised and cut, the son, however, receiving less injury than any. Miss Meder was driving the car at the time of the accident.

Spending the night here, the party were removed the morning following on board the Pan-American train, made as comfortable as possible and taken to New Orleans. Miss Meder is employed in the general passenger office of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company at New Orleans.

It appears, from the information received, the Meder car was behind the Taylor car, both going southward, while the Dedaux car coming on from the opposite direction. Miss Meder attempted to pass the Taylor car which was traveling at a slower rate than she calculated when the Dedaux car came on in swerving around and hit the Meder car. It was a head-on crash and the rebound caught the Taylor car. Miss Meder had trailed the slow-going Taylor car for a mile or more until she finally decided to pass it.

None of the passengers were thrown out neither did the car upset but the impact wrecked the Meder car and the Dedaux car as well. Mr. Dedaux was hurt across the chest when he was thrown against his steering wheel.

A wrecker from the Ben Hill Garage, Bay St. Louis, went after the Meder car which was taken to his place of repair and later the Dedaux car was gone after which was taken to his home at DeLisle.

Both the Meder and Dedaux cars carried insurance.

KILN DEFEATS WIGGINS IN CLASS B. BATTLE.

Kiln defeated the strong Wiggins team 12-7 at Wiggins Friday afternoon. It was a hard fought game with each team playing good ball. Kiln outplayed the home team thru-out and should have piled up a larger score. For Kiln Cammack and Gariga were outstanding on the offense plunging through the line at will. Laddner and Rutherford stood out on the defense with captain Peterson.

The Kiln High school coach announces a football game with Pass Christian Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Everyone is invited to this game the returns going to the athletic fund. The Pass High school boast a strong team and a good game is expected.

Aged Resident Falls From Front Porch and Head Seriously Injured

Mr. Alexander Allison, residing at 614 North Beach Boulevard, was painfully and seriously hurt Tuesday evening after dark when he missed his distance while walking on the front porch of his dwelling and fell over. His head struck a brick pillar and was split.

Soon missed by his family, his son later found him on the ground, lying in his blood and unable to call. Dr. A. P. Smith was called and gave immediate and proper attention. His condition is improved, but the injuries were painful and serious for the time being. Mr. Allison is one of our oldest and highly esteemed residents and the news of his misfortune will be received with regret both here and New Orleans where Mr. and Mrs. Allison and family are widely known. Bay St. Louis has no better and more consistent booster than Mr. Allison.

P-T. A. MEET AT CENTRAL HI SCHOOL

Financial Reports of Two Recent Benefits—Speakers Give Addresses.

The Bay Central P-T. A. held its regular monthly meeting in the school library Tuesday, November 17.

The National Presidents' message, "Cinderella's Reading," was read, followed by a song, "My Tribute."

Miss Leo Seal reported on the benefit card party sponsored by herself and Mrs. A. P. Smith. The seventeen dollars and fifty cents raised will take care of refurbishing the school's first aid room.

The County Hallows'een party, given by all the P. T. A's of Hancock county, was pronounced most successful, by Mrs. James Evans. There were two hundred children in attendance. The party netted $32.41 half of which will go to the county treasury, and half to the state treasury.

Mr. George Rea gave a five minute talk on the Red Cross. He announced the annual Red Cross Drive to take place soon. Mississippi had the least Red Cross membership of any state in the nation last year. Mr. Rea is most anxious to increase the membership this year, as the need for relief is so great.

Mrs. James Evans announced the Student Prints staff play to be given Friday, November 24th in the school auditorium. The play is to finance the trip of the delegates to the student press association held in Oxford, last week.

Mr. Ingram spoke on "What Are The Essentials of a School Education?" Miss Caperton of the commercial department enlarged on the subject. Both talks were interestingly presented.

War Veterans' Problems

Not since the period of the World War has the Red Cross faced a greater problem in handling the claims of World War and other veterans. Due to the changes in the regulations covering veterans' claims, chapters all over the nation have been crowded with veteran applicants for relief and for service in preparing appeals. During last year Red Cross home service workers in 3,268 chapters dealt with the problems of 411,124 ex-service men or their families.

Postal Department To Be Liberal With Extra Christmas Employment

Christmas promises to bring an extra measure of good cheer this year. The Postmaster general has directed subordinate postmasters to employ with the fullest degree of liberality as many deserving persons, both male and female, as circumstances may warrant, to handle the holiday rush of business. The pay will be about half a dollar an hour for a day not longer than ten hours. In this instance the Christmas season will prove an agreeable time not only for recipients of presents, but for the needy messengers of Santa Claus as well.

A week old baby was permitted to cry into a telephone in Jersey, his father heard it a few seconds later in Germany, and everyone who reads the papers had the facts next morning. Information travels far and fast these days. A great teacher had to do three years of hard work to spread his message imperfectly over the little province of Judea and Galilee, an area equal to a few good sized modern counties.

MAIN ST. HOME PREY TO FIRE

Dwelling of Late Joseph F. Cazeneuve Suffers $4,000 Fire Damage Friday Morning.

Fire of unknown origin partially destroyed the dwelling of Miss Ruth Cazeneuve, who resided at the old homestead with her aunt, Miss McCorry and sister, Miss Irene Cazeneuve, at about 8 o'clock Friday morning.

Miss Cazeneuve, who is paying teller at the Hancock County Bank, was leaving home when she discovered the roof of the place on fire, considerable headway having been made. Her aunt, who slept in the second story of the place, was asleep at the time and was carried out amid a density of smoke and was in imminent danger.

She was taken over to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Toulme, residing across the street nearby and given attention by the family physician.

To the credit of the city fire department, the alarm was promptly responded to and three streams of water under heavy pressure were at once applied to the raging fire through a single roof. The top story of the dwelling was destroyed but the lower portion of the house was saved due to the promptness of the fire department, a copious supply of water and full pressure.

The chiefs of the city fire department is composed of Frank Dillmann, Joseph Seafide, Sr., Mareselles (Pike) Telhiard, with Albert Monti, chief of the waterworks system.

The cause of the fire is given as presumably due to defective brick chimney. Outside of this the cause is not known.

Loss is estimated at $4,000.00, covered by a policy in the Home Insurance Company, of which the Hancock County Insurance Agency is resident representatives.

Miss Cazeneuve is occupying the former Joseph E. Saucier homestead in Main street, temporarily.

The Cazeneuve dwelling was one of the oldest and more attractive of the many that dot both sides of Main street and was of the type of architecture that commanded the admiration of those who loved beauty combined with the substantial. Facaded with a high and wide gable on each of the four sides it was of a singularly attractive type.

It was for many years the family home of the late Joseph F. Cazeneuve, sheriff and tax-collector of Hancock county and more lately Cashier of the Hancock County Bank of this city. One of the landmarks of residential Main street its destruction is generally regretted, aside from the sympathy for the present owners and occupants.

LOCAL VETERANS VISIT BILOXI

The Wm. J. Cleveland Camp No. 21 U. S. W. V. and its Auxiliary of Bay St. Louis, participated in the Memorial Services Armistice Day at the National Soldiers Home Biloxi.

After the ceremonies the visitors were shown through the Veterans Barracks, the Veterans and people of the Mississippi Gulf Coast should be proud and thankful for this beautiful home, to which all veterans with an honorable discharge are entitled to in case of emergency and old age.

Twenty-Two Millionth Visitor to World's Fair Receives Prize Farm.

The twenty-two millionth visitor at the World's Fair received a Michigan farm as a prize. One of the attendant circumstances gives food for thought. The plot of ground went not to a farmer who was at home and one the job, but to one who was abroad and in search of a little pleasure. It may be that most of us do not realize fully that there may be real profit in a day off now and then, not a day spent in idle worry on the home grounds, but in a journey to scenes that are far enough remote so that both work and worry are forced aside.

Mr. Balbo, who led a fleet of air craft from Italy to the World's fair in Chicago, has ceased to be minister of aviation and has been made governor of a territory in Africa. The chief concern of an official in Italy seems to be not to do his own technical work well, but to have his eye open for the best means whereby he can please the big boss. Having thus taken a fling at Italy, one may properly ponder how that country differs from any other in the respect stated.

Auto Salesman Wins Free Car For Selling Most Number in Region

F. J. Peranich, with Barksdale Motors, headquarters at Pass Christian, who is salesman for the Plymouth car, a few days ago was presented with a brand new model sedan, of this make by the Plymouth Motor Corporation as a reward for selling the most cars in two weeks over the territory he travels and which is represented by what is known as the St. Louis Region, including all this section of the South.

There are ten regions and a Plymouth sedan was given one to each region and Mr. Peranich was the fortunate one and best worker in his territory, to have sold the most cars. The sales, according to a printed statement, were checked and all found to be bona fide deliveries. It is quite a compliment to Mr. Peranich's ability and his energy and stability as well and should serve as an outstanding example to others, who, during the stressed period have found nothing to do and attribute all failures to conditions. Selling automobiles over this period of time is by no means the easiest it would appear.

Mr. Peranich is well known all along the Coast. In Bay St. Louis as well as at Pass Christian where he lives and all down the Coastal line. His car is a beauty and he is justly proud of his success and the acquisition to his possessions.

TEACHERS TO BE PAID THIS WEEK

Local Institution Assisting School Board and City Makes This Possible

School teachers, laborers and others connected with the conduct of Bay St. Louis city schools, who have been paid only a half month since the present session opened, will receive full pay to date this week, according to an announcement that the Merchants Bank & Trust Company, of Bay St. Louis, has granted a request for a loan of several thousand dollars.

This money will pay every nickel the city owes to teachers, janitors, etc., and will not only help the city to discharge a most sacred obligation but put much money into circulation through local channels, assisting many who are depending on this money.

City taxes are due October 1st but since, as a rule, payments are deferred until the beginning of the year and later, with February 1st as the deadline, the city is shy of cash for the time being. In order to tide over both the school board and city commissioners the loan was immediately made on request and the money paid to the city's credit as quickly as the necessary formalities were accomplished.

Not many communities are as fortunate as Bay St. Louis in this time of stress. This money, even though it has been earned and past due, will be received with double satisfaction and grateful realization of the source that made it possible to be paid at this time.

CLUB MEETING POSTPONED

St. Stanislaus College Mothers' Club meeting, scheduled for this coming Sunday, afternoon, November 19, has been postponed to Sunday, November 26, by request of members from New Orleans unable to conveniently be here for this week-end. Local members will govern themselves accordingly.

Old Saloon Days Will Never Return Regardless of Dry Repeal

Even though the 18th Amendment is repealed, the old times, good or bad, according to personal view point, will not come back to their entirety. No degree of wetness, it appears, will restore the saloon. The foot rail, the polished bar, the glittering mirrors, and the bartender with his black mustache and ripe stories, these belong to a time that is dead. How ward politics will be handled without such adjuncts remains to be seen, but perhaps ward politics, like everything else, is moving forward to a better day.

A well known night club hostess, dying several thousand miles from Manhattan, is reported to have said that she would rather have a square inch of New York than all the rest of the world. BOVALUPOS IS COMING TO TOWN

Burlesque Circus Benefit for This Saturday-Sunday Hopes to Secure Attraction

With the approaching dates for the two-night circus, this Saturday and Sunday, at convent gym, for the convent benefit, given under the auspices of Parents' Club, preparations accelerate in action and the process of evolution from thoughts into things of reality grow active, until now we are anticipating the arrival of the circus more keenly than ever.

There are many attractions, with five clowns, sideshows, etc., but the one great attraction the management is hoping to procure is the only living Bovalupos in captivity. This will come to Bay St. Louis, in a heavily caged, transported from a distance and through the generosity of a friend who has the success of the circus at heart.

The Bovalupos is neither fish, fowl nor animal but rather may be classed in the latter. Found only in the darkest part of Africa and living as carnivorous beings do, it is ferocious and hard to best. This specimen, however, is of the more docile type, it is stated and it is hoped its arrival will be in due time.

Children and adults as well will enjoy the burlesque circus. There will be a laugh every minute, never a dull moment, and it is easy to forecast a large attendance—just like all other circuses.

There will be an entrance prize given away on both Saturday and Sunday nights. The holder of the lucky number must be present at the drawing.

The awards will be two baskets filled with groceries, which were donated by J. R. Scharff's I. G. A. Store and Mutchler & Ashton's Coast Serve Self Store.

Don't forget the circus is this Saturday and Sunday, November 18 and 19. Doors open Saturday night at 6:00 P. M., Sunday at 3:30 and 7:00 P. M. Two shows Sunday.

Leggett, Hattiesburg District; B. L. Sutherland, Jackson District; T. J. O'Neal, Meridian District; Otto Porter, Seashore District, and H. G. Hawkins, of the Vicksburg district.

ROAD MAINTENANCE COSTS LOW

THE maintenance of more than six thousand miles of highways on the state system is one of the most important functions of the State Highway Department. Especially is this true because of the overwhelming number of miles of gravel roads, which require constant attention in order to keep them in shape to take care of the heavy traffic to which they are subjected. It is well known that the more miles of gravel and dirt roads subjected to constant and heavy traffic, the more the cost of maintenance will be. Such is the situation in Mississippi at the present time and is an added incentive to the construction of hard-surfaced roads.

The average cost of maintenance of roads on the state highway system in Mississippi for the year 1932 was $322 per mile. For the same period the average cost of maintenance of state roads in Tennessee was $338 per mile, and for state roads in Alabama an average of $368 per mile. When it is considered that there are on the state systems of Alabama and Tennessee hundreds of miles of concrete and asphaltic roads more than there are in Mississippi, the cost of maintenance of state roads by our Department indicates that the height of efficiency is maintained in that division of the Department.

HOME TOWN IMPROVEMENT.

THE idea has lately been applied in a number of communities, of asking the school pupils to draw up projects for the improvement of their home towns. The projects that seemed the most desirable were awarded honors as winners, and were exhibited in some public place.

Such a scheme must attract attention to the needs of a city or town. It may be said that the ideas of school children would not be very practical. Yet they hear these things talked about, and some good suggestions would be made public in this way. If we can get the people, and particularly the young folks, interested in the idea of constantly improving their home town, public support for such improvements will gain power.

NO CASH FOR PRESS.

THE government at Washington appreciates newspaper space very much. The various departments are quick to urge that the "local newspaper" be furnished with all sorts of news items but very rarely does the U. S. see any government advertising, for cash.

People who give the least, if any, in response to the many appeals born of every community, are seemingly those who resent most and register the biggest noise of disapproval. Each and every locality, worth inhabiting, have worthy and diverse organizations and causes galore. To be otherwise would be unnatural. There would be no effort, no charity, no goal to strive for. In the aggregate the calls might be numerous, but sifted down the donations and assistance sought are always small in single amount. Spread over a period of time the contributions are negligible. Protestations are, as a rule, born of unwillingness and possibly too often of lack of real community spirit. From those who are really in want and unable to give no one ever solicits. The open heart has always an open purse. The niggard is chronic.

This is the time when newspapers are beginning to carry many advertisements. This is particularly noted in the New Orleans daily press. Bay St. Louis and other adjacent towns are flooded daily, morning and evening, with these splendid newspapers, carrying daily increased advertisements. The wise merchant realizes now is the time people are buying; the advent of Christmas stimulates trade, and it is the wise merchants who gets the patronage. They advertise. It is noted visitors to New Orleans increase in number from day to day and the merchants of the big city who are intelligently advertising are getting the trade. An advertisement is an invitation to buy. The printed word stimulates interest.

No business enterprise has been hit so hard as the newspaper by the economic upheaval. None have suffered more. And wonderment has been expressed how well they have kept up under the strain, continuing to give the people an unimpaired service and so much for their money. The press has taken it under the chin without murmur and continues carrying on. True, many newspapers have fallen by the wayside. The number that have gone out of existence either by closing or consolidation is amazing. To those who continue, it seems, should be given the utmost support and encouragement. Communities without a newspaper are indeed at a loss and disadvantage to say nothing of the reflection.

Senator Huey Long in a public statement said he wrote editorials for every newspaper in New Orleans but one. The next morning Leonard Nicholson, publisher Times-Picayune in a boxed front page statement nailed the statement as false under the heading, "Just Another Lie." The refutation said Senator Long at no time wrote an editorial for the columns of that newspaper. "Just Another Lie" is characteristic and becoming very common in Louisiana politics in which Long figures with so much braggadocio and buffoonery.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NEXT YEAR.

EXECUTIVES of A Century of Progress definitely announce the Chicago fair will continue another season, that is, all of next summer and early fall. This decision was finally reached after much deliberation. One requirement, not published, was to the effect that Chicagoans, as a first requisite to insure the fair for another season, was their purchase of one million dollars worth of admission tickets, cash in advance. These tickets in turn to be sold as the originally purchasers might wish to dispose of them.

The spirit of Chicago, "I Will," was again manifested in this instance and the city gets the big fair for another year. Not only a success from every angle, but unlike former enterprises of this kind, the financial angle of the exposition has proven a financial triumph. Over twenty-three million people visited during the season.

In addition to this splendid spirit and the willingness of the management to "take a chance" which is all commendable, the fact is outstanding that the many who did not see the century of progress exposition will have an opportunity to see it next year, and, as stated authoritatively, better and bigger than the original. No one should miss it. It is worthy of even a second visit next year.

Incidentally, it must be said to the credit of Chicago, prices for food and accommodation did not soar. No prices for any necessity or commodity was boosted. To the contrary, there seemed to have been a combined effort to make one's stay as economical and pleasant as possible. We feel sure this disposition will exist next year.

If those who sit on the sidelines and criticize office-holders could only pull the number of votes necessary to get elected there would be little difference in our government.

BAY FIRE ENGINE TO THE RESCUE.

BAY ST. LOUIS' sister city across the Bay, Pass Christian, experienced a serious conflagration Monday afternoon when no less than twenty-five thousand dollars worth of property and other values went up in smoke. It was a disastrous fire and a blow to that section of the beautiful and classic city affectionately referred to as "The Pass."

But not so disastrous as it might have been, we are told first hand, if it were not for the promptness of the Bay St. Louis fire department in answering the S. O. S. call while its own fighting apparatus was away and out of town fighting a woods fire that destroyed one dwelling and threatened others.

"The promptness in which Bay St. Louis rendered assistance," said Mrs. Ray McKay, wife of the Publisher of the Pass Christian Tarpon to a representative of The Echo, "not only saved our printing plant and newspaper business but the whole block opposite the fire in which we are located. The engine was here well nigh instantaneously and the ability of your firemen soon had great streams of water in force protecting adjacent property. We are indeed grateful to Bay St. Louis."

This is not the first time the Bay engine and Bay fire fighters have gone to Pass Christian and served to appreciable extent. And several times has the Pass Christian fighting crew and engine come to Bay St. Louis and helped us fight the great foe. This sort of co-operation between cities is a gesture well worthy of mention, even though we know it exists and appreciate it.

So far as we have been able to observe few business men object to free advertising.

CHAIN-GANG CRUELTY.

IN South Carolina a negro convict escaped from prison camp and when he was recaptured the guards whipped him with a leather strap. Shortly afterwards the convict died.

The coroner's jury, very promptly, found that the negro died from heart attack, brought on by the severe punishment inflicted by four guards who knew he was in a poor physical condition. The jury ordered that these four men be arrested and prosecuted for their severe treatment of the prisoner.

South Carolina is to be congratulated upon having citizens on a coroner's jury who refuse to tolerate such undesirable and inhuman conditions. There is no excuse for such severity and the law does not give convict guards so much freedom in the management of prisoners in trust to their custody. A prisoner on a gang has some rights which even his guards must respect.

One phase of the Carolina situation calls for further investigation. A doctor was called to see the convict but says that he did not examine him. What kind of a doctor is this, prescribing for a patient without even making a casual examination of his condition? If the doctor's statement is true, his license to practice should be cancelled.

Don't forget to join the Red Cross.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF A 'COLUMN'

THE Echo's news and comment columnist, John T. Meyers, who writes weekly the column "Sauterings—From Where the West Begins," celebrates this week completion of a full year of publication of this unusual and interesting column. Mr. Meyers, who resides in San Antonio, Texas, where the west begins, is an attaché of the Hearst organization and is well known in his particular line of observation and description. What is of no interest to the untrained is meat for Mr. Meyers. His perception is keen, he immediately recognizes a story when he sees one, and he is possessed of that gift of saying so much in so little space, and—always of engaging interest.

This column has proven of so much interest to our readers that it has gained front-page position and is sought for and read more than any other feature. This contribution has been published weekly without missing. Mr. Meyers' fidelity is as much marked as by his ability and ever willingness to serve. This is written in grateful acknowledgment of the kindness of a gentleman, a scholar and a friend.

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHILLING
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

INDUSTRY AND BUSINESS.

THE late Thorstein Veblen was a crank. He was hard to get along with. As a teacher of undergraduates in college classes he was no great success, for that work was too elementary to suit his tastes; but he could, and did, make people think, if they were willing to take so much trouble. He said that economists reasoned very well indeed, but from false premises. So he attacked, not their arguments, but their alleged facts.

We are indebted to him for pointing out the distinction between industry and business. For a long time economists and others have studied "capital" and "labor." They had even pointed out the difference between the "entrepreneur," or "enterpriser," who manages a business, hiring both the labor and the capital and the "capitalist" who furnishes the money, but does none of the actual work. That was as far as anybody could see.

On the farm or in a small town and even in most cases in the cities today, as all over the world a century and more ago, that is all there is to be seen. The man who owns a shop, or a retail store, superintends the work, buys the supplies and sells the product is both an industrialist and a business man. That is the type of business which most of us know, and which economists argued about until Veblen pointed out that they were away behind the times. Modern inventions, rapid communication and transportation, the development of power and the consequent growth of immense corporations have created a new distinction.

Industry, according to Veblen, includes all the inventors, scientists, other experts and their subordinates who design and construct our modern marvels. Industry is perfectly able and willing to give every man, woman and child in this country every comfort and almost every luxury that is known, and many that are only imagined by the most of us, and to require only a very small amount of work from the able-bodied in return. It is a benevolent giant whose power for good can be but vaguely guessed. Its only object is to supply every conceivable material good to the largest possible number of people.

Business includes the vast organization of banks, exchanges and corporate structures of all kinds with all its great retinue of offices and individuals who are engaged in trying to make a profit. It is controlled by a small number, perhaps fifty to a hundred men, like Dillon, Wiggin and others. In turn business controls industry, which is therefore unable to accomplish its primary purpose, which is in conflict with the aim of all business, profits. As a single instance, industry could easily supply every family in the country with a completely equipped and beautifully furnished home of six or eight rooms (larger if necessary) built of permanent materials; but is not allowed to do it, for there would be no profit in the undertaking, merely heavy losses.

As a very able and experienced manufacturer, who is both an industrialist and business man expressed it, mechanical improvement has got ahead of social and ethical development. The opinion seems to be growing that an organization designed to satisfy human wants cannot be successfully diverted to the purpose of profit-making. The time comes when even the profits disappear.

This is not an argument to the effect that the business man is a desperate villain who should be suppressed. On the contrary, the writer has had the privilege of knowing a number of successful business men, and has found them to be remarkably fair-minded, courteous, kindly gentlemen. The average business man suffers from the system as much as anybody. Moreover it is necessary to have an organization and a highly intelligent, competent organization, to guide production to exchange goods and services and to distribute wealth. The question is whether an organization designed for those purposes whatever its defects, might not work somewhat better than an organization designed only to make profits. Recent testimony before the Senate committee increases our doubts in regard to "those Christian gentlemen to whom God, in His infinite wisdom, has committed the property interests of the country."

It is a very practical problem today whether we can afford to leave our giant industry under the control of our giant business corporations, or whether we can develop a better system of control. We do not yet know whether to "bear those who lie we have, or fly to others that we know not of." Our present system is based on a psychology which Veblen also attacked. The pragmatic argument is clearly in the public mind, and the scheme does not work.

One fact is clear—we cannot build any better structure than we now have on a foundation of hatred and envy. These feelings are always destructive, never constructive. We can justly punish proved crooks, and punish them severely; but we must include all honest people in our planning for the future.

Industry is perhaps less like a giant than like the arms and hands of a giant that need control. Present indications are that there will be many and warm arguments before the proper head is fitted to the rest of the body.

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS

ACCORDING to Fox statisticians, "Cavalcade," based on the Noel Coward novel, has already been seen by 40,000,000 persons, and by June it is estimated that at least 75,000,000 will have viewed this superb production. It has been re-dialogued in German, Spanish, Italian and French and shown simultaneously in Warsaw, Stockholm, Panama, Berlin, Paris, Shanghai, Hongkong, Calcutta, Dublin, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Barcelona, London and New York.

After a three weeks vacation, following the completion of "The Finger Man," James Cagney is hard at work at Warners on "Hair Chaser."

Denying that the Fairbanks, Doug, Sr., and Junior, were contemplating becoming British subjects, United Artists come forth with the explanation that Douglas, Jr., is making his first foreign-made picture, "Symphony in Purple," and Douglas Sr., will soon start work on "The Return of Don Juan." After that, father and son will be teamed in a "Zorro" story and will then return to Hollywood.

It may be interesting to learn that films, dealing with the agricultural crisis, forestry and the control of mosquitoes, can be secured, by paying transportation charges, from the Office of Motion Pictures, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Among the subjects offered are, "The Agricultural Crisis," "Too Much Wheat," "The A. B. C. of Forestry," "Mosquitoes," "Horses and Boots," and "It Might Have Been You."

Sally Rand, notorious fan dancer, has been engaged for "Bolero," with George Raft, despite the objection of the Hays office.

Because so many people thought the new Lee Tracy-Jean Harlow picture, "Bombshell," was a war picture and thus avoided it, the title of the film has been changed by the Metro office to "The Blonde Bombshell."

Joe E. Brown, Jean Muir and Thelma Todd have completed work on "Son of a Sailor," "Big Mouth Joe's next picture is to be "The Crowned Head," presenting the comedian as the car of one of those mythical realms.

Mary Brian and George O'Brien will have the leads in "Heir to the Throne," at the Fox lot.

The filming of "Good Earth," Pearl Buck's remarkable novel, is to be realistic; in fact the background is to be in the genuine article. Irving Thalberg is taking his company to China and real Chinese will be used in the picture. George Hill will direct.

Marion Davies and Bing Crosby are featured in "Going Hollywood," MGM's newest musical screen production, which has a lavish background and a tenuous score.

After an absence of eight years from the Paramount lot, where he got his start, Charles Farrell is back to head the cast of "Girl Without A Room."

Lillian Gish will play the feminine lead opposite Roland Young in "A Wise Wife," with Arthur Hopkins producing.

Gloria Swanson has been released from her contract with Joseph Schenck and is now free and able to accept such roles as appeal to her. It is rumored that the role of "The Pink Turtle," originally intended for Bing Crosby or even Lawrence Tibbett, has been given to Cary Grant. This isn't as surprising as it seems because Cary Grant, as Arthur Leech, was formerly a singer on the musical comedy stages of Broadway.

STATE ONCE MORE TO LEADERSHIP POSITION IN PECAN PRODUCTION

Good Crop, Possible Price Improvement, Low Ratio Of Consumption, Returns Interest in State's Foremost Nut Crop.

The pecan crop of 4 1/4 million pounds now being harvested by farmers and home owners of the State brings to prominence one of the most satisfactory and potentially profitable commodities made possible by Mississippi's favorable soil and climatic conditions, writes J. C. Hutton, Commissioner of Agriculture.

The cited 1933 crop of 4,250,000 pounds, according to Federal reports, more than doubles the 2,035,000 pound crop of last year but is still beneath the five-year average yield of 4,640,000 pounds. The United States crop, estimated at more than 58 million pounds, is about 5 million pounds larger than that of last year, about 1 million pounds less than the five-year average, but far beneath the 77 million pounds all-time record crop of 1931. The Mississippi crop, is roughly 50 per cent seedlings harvested from 358,000 trees and 50 per cent improved varieties harvested from 633,700 trees, about one-half of which are of bearing age.

Prices are as yet unsettled and may improve considerably with materialization of pecan codes under the NRA. Here, as through agriculture, relative overproduction has caused tragic decline in value. Yet, the entire crop this year is equal to only one-half pound for each resident of the United States. Even in Mississippi, one of the leading pecan states, the yield is only about four pounds to each state resident. Future expansion will therefore depend largely upon distribution and the extension of markets, supported by a quality product. Last year at least one ordinary good market was ruined by the dumping of cut pecans, and quantities of poorly filled meats are to be expected this year. To market these at low price destroys an equivalent market for quality pecans and distorts the public sense of value so that quality nuts are expected at cut prices.

"Mississippi, the home of the pampershell pecan offers facilities for development probably exceeding that of any other state. Vast areas of native trees may be topworked. Fertile lands throughout the state are suited for planting and optimum production. Homes on farms, in towns and cities may profit by planting this source of nutritious and abundant food while incidentally providing a shade and ornamental tree, rapid in growth, large in size, and long lived."

MY FLAG.

O, the red of her lips and the white of her brow
And the blue of her challenging eyes
Are the red, white and blue in the flag of my love,
My banner of bold enterprise.

And my flag shall wave till she cries for peace
With a right good will to yield.

World's Fair Gates Close for Winter to Reopen Next June First

A Century of Progress Exposition was in winter retirement Monday after having been visited by 22,317,221 persons since it opened last May 27.

Monday its broad avenues were deserted of all except a few guards and workmen. The "Streets of Paris" were strangely still and along the midway the voice of the barker was gone. The hall of science and other exhibit buildings were locked for the first time. Sunday 92,262 persons, lured by sunny skies and a sudden rise in the temperature, passed thru the turnstiles for the last time until June 1 when the fair will open for another season by popular request. Even President Roosevelt urged that it be held over.

At the stroke of midnight Sunday night Henry Running, a Rush medical college student from Sioux City, Ia., entered the grounds and became the last person to visit the fair in 1933. He was presented with a medal and a complimentary season ticket for next year.

Closing ceremonies were simple and brief. Talks by Rufus C. Dawes, president, and Major Lenox R. Lohr, general manager were carried to the crowd on the ground by the loud speaker system.

And then President Dawes closed the gates and applied a key to the locks. The world's fair of 1933—a $37,000,000 show—was over.

CRUISING PARTY RETURNS FROM GULF WATERS WITH CATCH

Of Fish Weighing Seven Hundred Pounds—Miss Del Bondio's Successful Cruise.

Returning to Pass Christian shores last Friday afternoon seven hundred pounds of fish was the total catch of a fishing cruise that lasted over a week, given by Miss L. C. Del Bondio on board the well-known schooner, Lillian Parker, fully equipped, including radio, and every convenience possible to make the trip comfortable in all sorts of weather and different condition.

The party left Pass Christian on November 1st and that afternoon landed at Goose Point, favorite spot for fishermen and pleasure parties. Supper was served, and later the party spent the balance of the evening in flounder fishing and, needless to say, returning with a bag of the finest and largest fish.

This resulted in a fish fry and marshmallow roast that afforded much pleasure. Only a short while for sleep, the Lillian Parker weighed anchor in the wee small hours of the next morning and headed for 3-mile Bayou, one of the best fishing grounds along the coast and gulf waters. From here, seeking open spaces and wider opportunities for greater catches, the boat continued on its journey and headed for the Louisiana marsh waters. Here another record catch was made. Only one bait was used and this was a shrimp tumbled by the party. Fifty of bait and fresh at all times.

The result of the ten days' trip was not only quantity but of quality as well, for large and choice fish seem to be the order of the catch. This supplied the party with food in addition to the provision carried by Miss Del Bondio for the trip. Nothing seemed to be lacking.

A spokesman for the party said to a representative of The Echo: "We were able not only to supply our personal friends with a string of fine fish, but for two hours after landing Messrs. Wittmann, Cronovich and Hanson distributed fish to all who came to the landing. Most of the time the weather was ideal, all of us were very comfortable and a cook supplied us with excellent meals."

Miss Del Bondio insisted, and the retention was carried out, that there should be one major, warm meal per day at least. This was for the proper sustenance and that no one would feel any lack that went to contribute to physical welfare and being.

Miss Del Bondio's well-known generosity and unselfishness was again manifested after the trip. Not only remembering her Pass Christian friends and all who were in need, she remembered a number of Bay St. Louis friends with a liberal supply, sending over the big ones and choice kind.

"How was the weather," queried the Echo representative. Was it too cold to be out on the gulf waters while the temperature was so low? "Not a bit of it," came back the answer with emphasis that carried conviction. "It was just cold enough to be comfortable. We were well provided with covering and tarpaulins over the upper deck to keep away any wind that might interfere. Some slept in the rooms below, but I slept every night on deck in the open. That is the true life of such a trip and outing."

Miss Del Bondio's sportmanship is well-known. She is equal to every occasion. Meets every requirement in advance and every situation with the most resourceful attention. Nothing daunts her. She is equal to every occasion.

Including those on board and forming the party were Captain Parker and Gene Roberts in charge of navigation; Frank P. Wittmann, all arrangements; Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hanson, Mr. George Cronovich, Mr. Harry Stubbie, Miss Jane Lang, Miss M. E. Bertrand and Miss Hazel Abbley.

Repeal of Amendment Will Allow Louisiana Wineries to Resume

New Orleans will contribute more than 100,000 gallons of wine to America's December 5 farewell to prohibition.

Old French Quarter wineries—which turned out fine cordials and delicate wines in the pre-ard days—are dusting out aged vats and building new ones for the area ahead.

And out of the reincarnation may spring a list of wines distinctive to the Pelican state—vintages which may take their places alongside the famous names of pre-Volstead days.

Down in the lower Mississippi region below New Orleans, at Buras, the country folks for years made a palatable orange wine.

To the southeast in the state, in the Hammond section, a strawberry vintage was evolved. Add to this the state's blackberries and muscadines, and Louisiana has all the ingredients for new types of wines.

Dealers here predict that a 10-cent glass of wine will be just as easily obtainable as the 5-cent glass of beer.

Those who want it by the gallon will have to pay from 80 cents to $1.25 for any wines, and from $1 to $1.50 for sweet wine.

Gents: A Miracle. Jack—I suppose when you proposed to Mabel and she said, "Oh, this is so sudden." Bob—No, she was honest and said, "The suspense has been terrible."

"Ann Carver's Profession" Week-End Showing At A. & G. Theater

"Ann Carver's Profession," the Columbia production which comes to the A. & G. Theater, Sunday and Monday, is a strikingly different story of a lovely girl who gladly takes everything a generous world has to offer—fame, fortune, luxury—only to balk at the price it asks her to pay. Fay Wray, Gene Raymond and Claire Dodd are featured in the principal roles of the picture, directed by Eddie Buzzell from a story by Robert Riskin.

Here is bold, true-to-life entertainment that will leave you greatly admiring Ann Carver, whether you agree with what she does or not. The red-headed film star is seen as a famous woman lawyer, who is striving to make an even greater name for herself in her calling. Her husband, Bill Graham, an architect, is making his way slowly, and resents the fact that his wife's success is so much greater than his own. Her neglect of him in preference to her professional affairs and associates drives Graham to seek the company of another woman. In a drunken moment the woman is accidentally strangled and Graham is accused of murdering her.

Building interest, scene upon scene there is a court-room climax that is a corker, wherein Fay, fully aware that it marks "finis" for her career in the public eye, defends her luckless husband, wins her case and leaves the court dumbfounded by her laconic declaration that "Ann Carver has tried her last case." It is the biggest scene of the production and the biggest scene of Fay Wray's entire career.

The personable, platinum-haired Gene Raymond reveals a hitherto hidden talent singing the popular "Love in the Moonlight," in a night-club sequence. Claire Dodd, who by this time must have had just about enough of being mistaken for Marlene Dietrich wherever she goes, turns in a neat performance as the voluptuous "other woman." Jessie Ralph (Aunt Minnie in "Gold of Manhattan") walks off with top supporting honors. Claude Gillingwater, Arthur Pierson, Frank Albertson, Frank Conroy and Robert Barrett complete the cast.

"Ann Carver's Profession" is in brief, the story of a gifted girl who thought love too great a price to pay for the world's applause.

Enthusiasm, excitement run high at S. J. A. and these emotions are on the increase as the great event approaches. And who would not be when a Circus is coming to town? No, it is better than that for the circus is coming to S. J. A. Gym. It is not strange then that all the pupils from the wee tot to the most dignified Senior are on the "give."

The youngsters are taking their brains as to the possibility of all these animals entering their beloved gym. But truth is stranger than fiction. What would a Circus be without the elephant, gorilla, giraffe. And you can stake your fortune that these will be there. And if you don't believe me, why come to see for yourself.

Rumors are that in the Streets of Paris no girl under sixteen will be granted admittance. And I know some Freshmen to whom this report has given quite a bit of concern. They are wondering how they can put on dignity a day within the next few days. Be consoled for if you are taboed from this side, show there will be many other attractions such as, peanuts, balloons, hot dogs and circus lemonade for both young and old.

"VISIT THE STREETS OF PARIS" THRILLS.

A schoolgirl's life is made up of many thrills and one of the most unforgettable ones is the arrival of the Senior rings and Junior pins. Well, such jubilation and exclamation were heard last Thursday when the rings arrived. It had been such a weighty matter that the girls could not come to any decision so last year's ring was made the standard. Future generations of seniors will thank the class of '34 for having freed them from a serious problem. But girls I wonder why you were so joyous to have the rings for they had no sooner made their appearance than just as quickly they disappeared. Can some one solve this conundrum?

"TAKE A RIDE ON THE ELEPHANT'S TRUNK"

SAVE YOUR ENERGY, SAVE YOUR TIME, SAVE YOUR MONEY by Traveling on the L&N Railroad

Step off an L. & N. train just as fresh and fit as when you got aboard. No crowding, no discomforts, no strain or fatigue from driving or riding as a motor passenger. And remember that there are no fires to fix, no traffic jams to fight and no delays for dining or toilet requirements. Go anywhere, any time, on any train over the entire L. & N. system at these very low rates—cheaper, safer and much more comfortable than other forms of transportation. Ask any L. & N. passenger representative for reservations and further particulars.

You be the Judge

YOU read the newspapers, of course. No doubt you have noticed how often the telephone is mentioned. Here you see an item about a fire—not serious, for a telephone call brought the fire department in quick time. Or perhaps it's the doctor—or the police—who came promptly in answer to a telephoned summons.

Consider how many trips a day the telephone would save—think how easily friends and relatives can reach you—consider how many ways the telephone will serve you as a convenience, a comfort, a protection and also as a business aid.

Then compare these advantages with the small cost (you can have telephone service in your home for about ten cents a day) and you will no doubt agree with the thousands who have found the value of telephone service is so great and the cost so reasonable that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

THE ECHO'S COOKING CLASS

ALL over the country there will be gatherings of families and friends for the Thanksgiving holidays. If you would make the occasion a memorable one, plan early in the week, thus relieving the strain of last minute details. Here are some recipes that will assist the hostess during the stay of her guests.

Thanksgiving Canape.
Toast thin rounds of bread until a delicate brown. Spread with pimento butter made by mixing mashed pimento with creamed butter. Slice hard boiled eggs and remove the yolks. Press yolks through a sieve and let fall generously over buttered toast. In center of each piece of toast place a ring of egg white and fill the center with finely chopped pickled beets.

Mince Slipover.
Flaky pastry
1 package mince meat
½ pound cheese
1-3 to ½ cup milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
Dry mustard
Line a pie plate with pastry and fill with mince meat. Cover with a top crust or, if preferred, narrow strips of pastry applied lattice fashion. Bake 25 minutes in an oven 375 degrees. Break the cheese in small pieces. Place in double boiler with milk and seasoning. Melt quickly over hot water. Quick melting makes for creaminess and avoids toughening of cheese. Pour a spoonful of this mixture (hot) over each portion of the pie when serving.

Sea Food Croquettes
1 cup flaked crabmeat
1 cup cleaned and finely cut shrimp
Salt and pepper
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup thick white sauce
Mix the meat and season with a little salt, pepper and lemon juice. Add to the white sauce and mix well. Spread into balls, make a depression in the top of each ball. Roll them in fine crumbs, dip in egg slightly beaten, again in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. Drain and fill the depression with a little tartar sauce. Garnish with a bit of green and lemon cut in fancy shapes.

Pecan Cake.
3-4 pound butter
7 eggs
1 pound flour
1 pound shelled pecans
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ pint of rose water
1½ pounds raisins
½ pound citron
Cream sugar and butter, add eggs beaten separately and half of flour, the other flour to dredge the fruit. Add baking powder. Add nuts, raisins and citron which has been cut thin. Bake in an angel cake pan in oven 275 degrees for one hour.

Toll of the Earthquake
When a severe earthquake killed 95 persons; injured 4,911 and destroyed several thousand homes in Southern California last March, the Red Cross was first upon the ground with emergency relief. It required more than three months for the Red Cross to restore the needy to a self-sustaining basis. The organization expended a relief fund of $411,000.

DR. AND MRS. JAMES A. EVANS OBSERVE THEIR 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Dr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Evans were twenty-five years married Saturday last and for the occasion quite a number of the Doctor's relatives, who reside close enough to make the trip for the occasion, assembled for the event and its quiet observance.

Dr. Evans, originally from Jones county and later from New Orleans has been a successful practitioner in dentistry from before he married and a prominent citizen affiliated with every movement for the betterment and advancement of the city. Mrs. Evans, before her marriage, was Miss Valda Boyd, daughter of prominent Tennessee family who spent the winters in this section before her marriage.

Relatives present for the occasion included Mr. and Mrs. B. Thomson and little daughter Audrey; Mrs. B. Harrington and son, Mr. Delmer Harrington, Miss Johnnie Evans, Mr. John A. Evans all of New Orleans; Mrs. S. L. Hollingsworth, of Columbus, Miss. In addition a number of close friends and of long standing joined in celebration of this silver anniversary. A number of presents, all silver, well attested to the popularity and esteem in which Dr. and Mrs. Evans are held.

A buffet supper was served followed by an evening of bridge playing. Miss Johnnie Evans poured coffee while Mrs. Thomson poured chocolate from opposite ends of the center table where the silver wedding cake formed the central piece of decoration.

The affair was thoroughly informal and one of no great proportions but proved of lasting pleasure and memory.

The home-coming reception will take place this Saturday evening at the Grace Villa, on Waveland beach, and to which a number of friends of the family have been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Grace will continue their trip to New Orleans after a visit here, making their future home in the big city where the groom is a prominent citizen and successful member of the Louisiana bar.

QUIET OBSERVANCE OF BIRTHDAY OF MRS. CHAS. J. BUCKLEY.

Completely surprised, the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Chas. J. Buckley was observed by a small number of closest friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Pepperdine at their beach residence Sunday evening, who had been previously invited to assemble without the knowledge of Mrs. Buckley.

Owing to recent bereavement, the assembly was thoroughly informal and quiet. Dainty and thoughtful remembrances of the day were set on a table where a birthday cake of lavender and pink and so many candles forming the letter "A" had been placed.

Included in the number of guests were Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Gray, Mrs. Buckley's pastor.

Mrs. Pepperdine served a light plate colation.

LADIES OF SEWING CLUB SPEND CHARMING AFTER-NOON WITH MRS. SPEER.

The Sewing Circle from the Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church met with Mrs. W. S. Speer, Main street, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. IN MEMORIAM.

On the morning of Thursday, November ninth, the beautiful soul of Mrs. E. L. Nye passed on to the Great Beyond. Cultured, refined and charming, a true lady of the Old South her home in Waveland Beach was always open to the many friends, both young and old, who mourn her passing.

She had lived in Texas for the past year and her one wish in her last illness, was to come back to the home she loved, and to the children, grandchildren and friends who loved her so dearly. Her younger daughter, who has given her so many years of devoted, loving and unselfish care, granted that wish, and she with her husband brought their precious little mother home to happiness and rest. Several days later she slipped quietly and peacefully into the last sleep, to awaken joyfully and meet the dawn of Everlasting Life.

Deepest sympathy goes out to the bereaved ones. May the memory of her pure and Christian life be a guiding star to bring them to her "In that world above!"

Where parting is unknown, A long eternity of love, Formed for the good alone; And faith beholds the dying here Translated to that happy sphere.

A FRIEND.
